COUNTR	PolandApproved For Release 2002/08/14 : CAARDP02-0045777015300130006-7
TOPIC	Polish Troops in Lublin
Advis deletes aparen		51-244
EVALUATI	ION 25X1X PLACE OBTAINED 25X1A	12 31 J
DATE OF	CONTENTprior to March 1952	. 100 y . 31
DATE OB		Martin (algebra e samuelin en la como e may appaga
REFEREN	25X1A
PAGES	ENCLOSURES (NO. & TYPE)
REMARKS
	TE
	All the same of th
	000
SOURCE		25X1X
		25/1/
2.	at the western edge of Lublin (S 52/R 18) and consisted of several multiple red brick buildings, was occupied by a Polish infantry regiment and a Personnel of the UB unit wore service color which was somewhat a lighter than that of the infantry unit. Prior to March 1952. KFW troops in the structh of the infantry unit.	UB unit. er red
2.	Personnel of the UB unit wore service color which was somewhat a lighter than that of the infantry unit. I Prior to March 1952, KEW troops in the strength of at least a battalic quartered in a camp of about 20 low wooden buildings on the west side Lipowa, former Linden Strasse, north of a cemetery in the western section. The commanding officer was a lieutenant colonel who, source least prison inspector, was a Russian. The soldiers were khaki uniforms with collar patches, green shirts, dark green neckties and service caps with bands. They were equipped with submachine guns, light machine guns and of about 80-mm caliber, and had light approaches.	UB unit. er red n were of ul. on of the rned from th blue h blue mortars
2.	Personnel of the UB unit wore service color which wis somewhat a lighter than that of the infantry unit. Prior to March 1952, KEW troops in the strength of at least a battalic quartered in a camp of about 20 low wooden buildings on the west side Lipowa, former Linden Strasse, north of a cemetery in the western section. The commanding officer was a lieutenant colonel who, source lead a prison inspector, was a Russian. The soldiers were khaki uniforms with collar patches, green shirts dayly mean matches.	UB unit. er red n were of ul. on of the rned from th blue h blue mortars
	Personnel of the UB unit wore service color which was somewhat a lighter than that of the infantry unit. I Prior to March 1952, KEW troops in the strength of at least a battalic quartered in a camp of about 20 low wooden buildings on the west side Lipowa, former Linden Strasse, north of a cemetery in the western section. The commanding officer was a lieutenant colonel who, source least prison inspector, was a Russian. The soldiers were khaki uniforms with collar patches, green shirts, dark green neckties and service caps with bands. They were equipped with submachine guns, light machine guns and of about 80-mm caliber, and had light armored recomaissance vehicles, type trucks and Russian sedars. They were conserved in the light armored recomaissance vehicles,	UB unit. er red n were of ul. on of the rned from th blue h blue wortars various a groups in km skie were under
	Personnel of the UB unit wore service color which was somewhat a lighter than that of the infantry unit. Prior to March 1952, KBW troops in the strength of at least a battalic quartered in a camp of about 20 low wooden buildings on the west side Lipowa, former Linden Strasse, north of a cemetery in the western section. The commanding officer was a lieutenant colonel who, source least a prison inspector, was a Russian. The soldiers were khaki uniforms with collar patches, green shirts, dark green neckties and service caps with bands. They were equipped with submachine guns, light machine guns and of about 80-mm caliber, and had light armored reconnaissance vehicles, type trucks and Russian sedars. They were engaged in fighting guerrillicated the Lublin area. In the spring of 1950, a barracks installation was being built about 2 southeast of the town on the northside of the road toward Piaski Luters (S 52/R 26). Four buildings were completed in October 1951, and others construction. Source learned buildings would be constructed.	UB unit. er red on were of ul. on of the rned from th blue mortars various a groups in km skie were under 18 25 600 meters.
3.	Personnel of the UB unit wore service color which was somewhat a lighter than that of the infantry unit. I Prior to March 1952, KEW troops in the strength of at least a battalic quartered in a camp of about 20 low wooden buildings on the west side Lipowa, former Linden Strasse, north of a cemetery in the western section. The commanding officer was a lieutenant colonel who, source least a prison inspector, was a Russian. The soldiers were khaki uniforms with collar patches, green shirts, dark green neckties and service caps with bands. They were equipped with submachine guns, light machine guns and of about 60-mm caliber, and had light armored recomnaissance vehicles, type trucks and Russian sedars. They were engaged in fighting guerrille the Lublin area. In the spring of 1950, a barracks installation was being built about 2 southeast of the town on the northside of the road toward Piaski Luters (S 52/R 26). Four buildings were commetted in October 1951, and others construction. Source learned that a total of buildings would be constructed. He estimated the site at about 1,000 x. The completed buildings were four-story and about he meters long. Comment. As the 3d Inf Div is carried in Lublin, it is believed.	UB unit. er red n were of ul. on of the rned from th blue h blue mortars various a groups in km skie were under 18 25 600 meters.
3. (1A 1.	Personnel of the UB unit wore service color which was somewhat a lighter than that of the infantry unit.¹ Prior to March 1952, KEW troops in the strength of at least a battalic quartered in a camp of about 20 low wooden buildings on the west side Lipowa, former Linden Strasse, north of a cemetery in the western section. The commanding officer was a lieutenant colonel who, source least a prison inspector, was a Russian. The soldiers were khaki uniforms with collar patches, green shirts, dark green neckties and service caps with bands. They were equipped with submachine guns, light machine guns and of about 80-mm caliber, and had light armored reconnaissance vehicles, type trucks and Russian sedars. They were engaged in fighting guerrilly the Lublin area.² In the spring of 1950, a barracks installation was being built about 2 soutleast of the town on the northside of the road toward Piaski Luters (S 52/R 26). Four buildings were committed in October 1951, and others construction. Source learned that a total of buildings would be constructed. He estimated the site at about 1,000 x The completed buildings were four-story and about 40 meters long. Comment. As the 3d Inf Div is carried in Lublin, it is believed infantry regiment of this division is muartered in the barracks install Comment. The unit observed probably is an element of the 3d KEW	UB unit. er red n were of ul. on of the rned from th blue h blue mortars various a groups in km skie were under 18 25 600 meters.
3. (1A 1.	Personnel of the UB unit wore service color which was somewhat a lighter than that of the infantry unit.¹ Prior to March 1952, KEW troops in the strength of at least a battalic quartered in a camp of about 20 low wooden buildings on the west side Lipowa, former Linden Strasse, north of a cemetery in the western section. The commanding officer was a lieutenant colonel who, source least a prison inspector, was a Russian. The soldiers were khaki uniforms with collar patches, green shirts, dark green neckties and service caps with bands. They were equipped with submachine guns, light machine guns and of about 80-mm caliber, and had light armored reconnaissance vehicles, type trucks and Russian sedars. They were engaged in fighting guerrilly the Lublin area.² In the spring of 1950, a barracks installation was being built about 2 soutleast of the town on the northside of the road toward Piaski Luters (S 52/R 26). Four buildings were committed in October 1951, and others construction. Source learned that a total of buildings would be constructed. He estimated the site at about 1,000 x The completed buildings were four-story and about 40 meters long. Comment. As the 3d Inf Div is carried in Lublin, it is believed infantry regiment of this division is muartered in the barracks install Comment. The unit observed probably is an element of the 3d KEW	UB unit. er red n were of ul. on of the rned from th blue h blue mortars various a groups in km skie were under 18 25 600 meters.
3. (1A 1.	Personnel of the UB unit wore service color which was somewhat a lighter than that of the infantry unit.¹ Prior to March 1952, KEW troops in the strength of at least a battalic quartered in a camp of about 20 low wooden buildings on the west side Lipowa, former Linden Strasse, north of a cemetery in the western section. The commanding officer was a lieutenant colonel who, source least a prison inspector, was a Russian. The soldiers were khaki uniforms with collar patches, green shirts, dark green neckties and service caps with bands. They were equipped with submachine guns, light machine guns and of about 80-mm caliber, and had light armored reconnaissance vehicles, type trucks and Russian sedars. They were engaged in fighting guerrilly the Lublin area.² In the spring of 1950, a barracks installation was being built about 2 soutleast of the town on the northside of the road toward Piaski Luters (S 52/R 26). Four buildings were committed in October 1951, and others construction. Source learned that a total of buildings would be constructed. He estimated the site at about 1,000 x The completed buildings were four-story and about 40 meters long. Comment. As the 3d Inf Div is carried in Lublin, it is believed infantry regiment of this division is muartered in the barracks install Comment. The unit observed probably is an element of the 3d KEW	UB unit. er red n were of ul. on of the rned from th blue h blue mortars various a groups in km skie were under 18 25 600 meters.